When:

Thursday, January 20, 2022

from 10:30 AM to 11:30 AM PST

Greetings!

Working on legislation related to health insurance/Medi-Cal this year? In 2022, will you or your office:

- Propose a health insurance benefit-related bill?
- Propose a bill related to reimbursement for certain kinds of health care providers or facilities?
- Propose a benefit-related bill for Medi-Cal?
- Sponsor or take a position on one?
- Vote on one?

Great! Legislators, legislative and agency staff, advocates, health plan staff, and the public are warmly invited to the annual legislative briefing of the California Health Benefits Review Program (CHBRP), which will take place virtually this year.

At the request of the California Legislature, drawing on multi-disciplinary faculty and researchers based at the University of California, CHBRP provides timely, independent, and rigorous evidence-based analysis of introduced health insurance benefit-related legislation. These requests come from the Legislature (usually the Health Committees). CHBRP mainly analyzes benefit-related mandates (i.e., mandates to cover a test, treatment, or service).

At this year's legislative briefing, we will discuss the analytic approach CHBRP uses and demonstrate how CHBRP serves as a bridge between academia and the policy-making process within the Legislature's fast timeline.

Whether you are new to health insurance topics or an expert, we welcome your attendance and questions. Please click on the link below to RSVP. We hope to see you online! Please feel free to share this announcement with other colleagues.
